INTERRUPTION OF STUDY PROCEDURE (TAUGHT PROGRAMMES)
Introduction .................................................................................................................. 3
Absences ......................................................................................................................... 3
Application for an Interruption of Study ................................................................. 3
Decision Process ........................................................................................................... 4
Restrictions on Applying for an Interruption of Study........................................... 5
Confirmation of Decision ........................................................................................... 5
Your Rights During the Period of Interruption ......................................................... 5
University Action During an Interruption of Study ................................................ 6
Request for Review ....................................................................................................... 6
1. Introduction

1.1. This procedure applies to all students on undergraduate and postgraduate taught programmes (including MRes and taught components of professional doctorates) and details what you must do to notify the University of any absence from your studies.

1.2. If you are a disabled student and require adjustments to this procedure to be able to engage fully with the process, please contact the Head of Registry to identify any reasonable adjustments which can be made to support your engagement.

2. Absences

2.1. If you are absent for a short period of time, less than 14 days in length, you should notify your School of the absence and reason for absence.

2.2. If you are absent for a period of 14 days or more, you should submit an application for an interruption of study.

3. Application for an Interruption of Study

3.1. You may need to apply to interrupt your studies for a temporary period of time with the intention of returning at a future date.

3.2. If the reason for the interruption is related to pregnancy or parental leave, you should first read the policy and guidance on Support for Pregnant Students and Students who become Parents.

3.3. If you are an external student — repeating a programme or module(s) externally — you are not required to submit an application for an interruption of study, but you should report any extenuating circumstances (read the Extenuating Circumstances Procedure) if you are unable to take assessments.

3.4. If you are absent for 14 days or more, you should submit an application for an interruption of study. The period of interruption should not exceed 12 months.

3.5. Exceptionally, if you are absent for 14 days or more and you have notified your School of your circumstances but you are unable to submit an application for an interruption of study, the Head of School may submit an application for an interruption of study on your behalf.

3.6. You are advised to speak to your Personal Tutor to discuss the circumstances which cause you to require an interruption.

3.7. When you apply for an interruption of study, you should ensure that all sections of the form are completed and appropriate evidence is supplied where relevant. The completed application for an interruption of study will be considered by your Head of School, or nominee.

3.8. If your application is successful, the Head of School will confirm a convenient time to return to study. It may not be possible for you to re-join immediately after the period of absence and you may need to wait until the following academic year.

3.9. When your interruption is confirmed, it will commence on either the date you submitted your application or on the commencement date you requested in your application, whichever is the latest. The date of your first recorded absence may be used to calculate any adjustment to your tuition fees, but cannot be backdated.

3.10. The grounds for submitting an application for an interruption of study are as follows:

- Ill health, mental or physical health concerns.
- Maternity/paternity/shared parental/adoption leave.
- Sabbatical Office – an interruption of study may be granted to a student who has been elected to a sabbatical post in the Students’ Union.
- Work experience, professional non-credit bearing placement, or internship. Students who are pursuing a programme with integrated placement learning opportunities will not be granted an interruption of study in order to obtain further work experience, unless there are exceptional circumstances. Students in the UK on a Tier 4 student visa cannot submit an application on this ground.
- Exceptional professional commitments (only applicable to part-time students) if a student is on a part-time, distance or blended learning programme, and where they have increased unforeseen work commitments which prevent them from studying.
- Study abroad: students who are pursuing programmes with integrated study abroad opportunities will not be granted an interruption of study in order to obtain further study abroad opportunities, unless there are exceptional circumstances.
- Compassionate grounds: for personal, family, or domestic circumstances.
- Exceptional financial hardship.
- Academic grounds, when this is in the student’s best interest. The student will return to study at an appropriate point in the academic year.

4. Decision Process

4.1. The Head of School will consider:

- the reasons for your request,
- continuity and currency of programme content,
- how you will be assessed on your return to study for any assessments not completed,
- the date of your return to study,
- any other periods of interruption previously agreed for you for the same programme of study.

4.2. If your application is approved, your School may request certain conditions to be met before you return to study, e.g. evidence that you are well enough to return to study. Support and advice is available from the Student Support and Wellbeing team.

4.3. If your application is rejected or the length of the interruption is different from the one requested, you will be notified of the reason for the decision.

4.4. During your programme, you are permitted a maximum period of 12 months’ interruption of study. In exceptional circumstances, the Chair of the Academic Standards and Quality Committee may approve longer periods that do not exceed 24 months in total, provided the application is supported by the Head of School in the first instance. If you have multiple short-term interruptions of study, the cumulative amount will be considered and must not exceed the permitted limits stated above.
4.5. Interrupted periods of study, the reasons for interruption, and any conditions attached to return to study will be recorded confidentially on your student record.

5. Restrictions on Applying for an Interruption of Study

5.1. If you experience unexpected problems during an examination period, you should use the Extenuating Circumstances Procedure. Interruption of study applications will not be considered during formal examination periods, except in exceptional circumstances.

5.2. If you are on a Tier 4 visa and apply for an interruption of study, you may need to return to your home country and reapply for a new visa before your return to study date. The University must notify UKVI of the interruption of study. You are encouraged to seek advice from the Student Support and Wellbeing team before applying for an interruption of study.

6. Confirmation of Decision

6.1. You will be notified of the Head of School’s decision of the outcome of your application within 14 days of its submission. If you are applying for an interruption of study which means that you will have interrupted your programme for more than 12 months in total, it may take longer than 14 days to be notified of the outcome of your application.

6.2. An appointment with the Student Support and Wellbeing team may be recommended before returning to study if the grounds for your interruption relate to your health and wellbeing.

6.3. Your funding body/sponsor/UKVI will be notified of the duration of interruption and any related adjustment/refund of tuition fees that may be applicable.

7. Your Rights During the Period of Interruption

7.1. During the period of interruption of study, you remain registered on your programme of study and your student record is updated to reflect that you are not actively engaged with your programme for the duration of your interruption of study.

7.2. During the period of your interruption of study, you are permitted:

- access to your university IT account (including email and SIMS),
- limited access to Student Support and Wellbeing services,
- access to Careers and Employability service,
- public access to libraries and University buildings.

7.3. During the period of your interruption of study, you are not permitted to:

- attend programme sessions including lectures, seminars, laboratory sessions, and supervisory meetings;
- access learning materials via Learning Central;
- participate in formal assessments including taking formal examinations or submitting coursework;
- depending on the length of interruption, remain in University accommodation: please seek advice from Residential Services in advance of your application. Your contract will be adjusted without penalty and you will be provided with notice to quit in accordance with your accommodation contract. The Student Support and Wellbeing team will be able to advise you on alternative accommodation should you require assistance.

7.4. Please note:

- Student card: if your student card expires while you are on an interruption of study, you will not be issued with a new student card until you complete enrolment to recommence your studies.

- Transcript: you will be issued with the decision of the Examining Board for any completed assessments, where the assessment components for an entire module have been completed, in line with normal results release timescales, unless there is an exceptional reason to withhold results.

- Council Tax certificates: You will retain access to all Council Tax certificates which have been issued to you before you commence an interruption. Some students on an interruption will be entitled to a new certificate, but this is dependent on the Council Tax regulations in force at the relevant time.

7.5. If you are employed by the University and are interrupting on the grounds of ill health, the information submitted will also be considered by Human Resources in relation to your employment contract.

7.6. You will not receive information from the University about employment or volunteering opportunities during your period of interruption.

8. University Action During an Interruption of Study

8.1. The University has statutory and legal responsibilities to notify a number of bodies of your interruption of study. Examples of these bodies include:

- Sponsor or funding bodies;
- UK Visas and Immigration (UKVI);
- Higher Education Statistics Agency and other statutory bodies.

8.2. The University will not charge you tuition fees for the period of your interruption of study, in accordance with the Tuition Fee Policy.

8.3. When you re-commence your study, you may be required to pay tuition fees for any periods of study you repeat or have missed due to your interruption of study.

8.4. The Student Support and Wellbeing team will be able to advise you of the financial implications of taking an interruption of study.

9. Request for Review

9.1. If your application for interruption of study is rejected or you disagree with the return date, you can appeal the decision in accordance with the University Review Procedure.